

ABSTRACT

The present invention is a design for a highly efficient passive separator. The invention utilizes passive air rotation techniques in combination with centrifugal separation and a 5 particulate reservoir to achieve highly efficient, highly effective separation of, e.g., particulate matter from a fluid.